DETAILED ACTION

The following is a first action in application Serial No.10/659,442, filed September 11, 2003.

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-12 and 15-20, drawn to a lockup device or the combination of a fluid-type torque transmission device and a lockup device, classified in class 192, subclass 3.29.
- II. Claim 13, drawn to an elastic coupling mechanism, classified in class 464, subclass 51+.
- III. Claim 14, drawn to a method of installing a plurality of springs, classified in class 29, subclass 896.93.
- IV. Claims 21-30, drawn to a method of assembling a piston coupling mechanism, classified in class 29, subclass 889.5.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the lockup device does not require an elastic coupling as defined in claim 13. The subcombination has separate utility such as in a clutch or brake not associated with a fluid-type torque transmission device.

Inventions III and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product can be made without preparing a spring installation tool.

Inventions IV and I are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the process can be used to make a piston coupling mechanism that does not include an elastic coupling as called for in the claims to the torque transmission device.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
